ORGANIZATION MISSION: Provide free legal service to people living with HIV/AIDS and others affected by the AIDS epidemic.

CLIENT ELIGIBILITY: Income guidelines: none
Geographic guidelines: PA resident
Other guidelines: anyone affected by HIV/AIDS needing legal information, advice or representation

INTAKE PROCESS: By phone: M-F, 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. A staff member conducts an intake on everyone who calls with a legal concern. The intake team reviews all requests for assistance and determines the appropriate response. Follow-up can include: legal information; advocacy; individual representation; and referral to an attorney affiliated with the AIDS Law Project’s attorney referral panel.

AREAS OF EXPERTISE: Assisting clients with a wide array of legal problems in the areas of:

• confidentiality and medical record privacy
• discrimination
• access to health care
• public benefits
• private insurance
• wills, living wills, and powers of attorney
• family law
• landlord-tenant
• debt management
• immigration
PROGRAMS:

Family program: Helps parents with HIV/AIDS make legally secure plans for the future care and/or custody of their children

Housing advocacy: Outreach, education, advocacy & representation to ensure that people with HIV/AIDS who are facing eviction and imminent homelessness can maintain secure, affordable housing.

Case Management Advocacy Training: Intensive two-day training for HIV case managers using our comprehensive public benefits advocacy manual.

Educational Seminars: The AIDS Law Project conducts three seminars each month in Center City which are free and open to the public:

1. Leaving Your Job: People with HIV/AIDS thinking about leaving a job need specific information to transition. Issues discussed include: applying for disability benefits; keeping insurance coverage after leaving a job; and the effect of an HIV diagnosis on an existing insurance policy.

2. Back to Work: New drug therapies have dramatically improved the health of many living with HIV/AIDS. Many people are considering a return to the workplace, but fear losing their benefits, particularly the healthcare that made them feel well enough to work in the first place. Issues include: attempting work while receiving Social Security benefits; keeping Medicaid and Medicare while working; and returning to public benefits in the event of poor health.

3. Debt Management: Poor health can ruin a person’s financial well-being. As people with HIV/AIDS are living longer, they find the debt incurred as a result of the illness has become an overwhelming problem. Constant harassment by debt collectors chips away at the strength necessary to fight HIV/AIDS. A poor credit history and unpaid debt may make it impossible to rent a better apartment, buy a home or otherwise move on with life. Seminar participants will be advised on the range of options for handling debt, including: reviewing a credit report for accuracy; writing judgment proof letters; credit counseling services; and filing bankruptcy.

ORGANIZATION MISSION: To defend the liberties and rights protected by the constitutions of Pennsylvania and the United States with a comprehensive program including impact litigation, public education and advocacy.

CLIENT ELIGIBILITY: Income guidelines: none
Geographic guidelines: violation must occur in the state of Pennsylvania, although client need not be a resident of Pennsylvania
Other guidelines: focus on clients with civil liberties problem best addressed through litigation.

INTAKE PROCESS: By phone: M-F, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
(Walk-ins discouraged.)
Caller information is taken over the phone. Cases accepted present a civil liberties issue that needs to be addressed through litigation.

AREAS OF EXPERTISE: Civil liberties, civil rights, due process, Constitutional Law, particularly First Amendment.

PROGRAMS: Litigation that is precedent-setting in order to maximize the legal impact with minimal resources or that enforces a clearly established Constitutional right.
Public education by the Speakers Bureau and staff members. The Speakers Bureau provides speakers to organizations, groups and individuals throughout the state. The goal of this work is to educate the general public about their Constitutional rights and how they apply to their lives.
Intake and referral service responds to individuals seeking legal advice or assistance. Some cases are taken; others are referred to appropriate agencies.

their abusers in Municipal Court and to victims who have been sexually assaulted by their abusers

Contempt Court Advocacy Program: assists victims in court whose abusers have been arrested for misdemeanor protection order violations, and victims who have filed private criminal complaints against their abusers are assisted with that process.

Safety Planning Workshops: helps victims develop safety strategies; provides workshops in high schools about teen domestic violence

Self-Defense Program: provides support and advocacy for battered women who hurt or kill their abusers in self-defense.

Advocacy: WAA Legal Center works with the Philadelphia Family Court, the Philadelphia Bar Association and other agencies and groups working to improve the legal system for domestic violence victims.

LEGAL CENTER
DIRECTOR: Molly Callahan
ORGANIZATION MISSION: The Women’s Law Project is committed to advancing the legal, social, and economic status of women through litigation, public policy advocacy, public education, and individual counseling.

LITIGATION: WLP accepts a small number of high-impact cases having the potential to benefit large numbers of women or achieve an important doctrinal advance for women. We also support litigation brought by others through the organizing and filing of amicus curiae briefs.

POLICY ADVOCACY: WLP promotes coalition building, provides technical assistance to legislators, reviews and comments on pending legislation and proposed rule changes, participates in policy-making task forces, performs speaking engagements, and publishes brochures and self-help materials.

TELEPHONE COUNSELING: The Telephone Counseling and Consumer Education Service provides legal information and referrals to legal and non-legal organizations. Consumers may call WLP Mon.-Fri., 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to complete an intake process. Non-attorney counselors discuss problems, relevant laws and procedures, and resources with callers. WLP cannot accept walk-in requests for counseling.

AREAS OF EXPERTISE: Reproductive Rights: WLP has a long, distinguished record of achievement in defending reproductive freedom. This work includes challenging restrictive abortion legislation and regulations, protecting clinics against organized blockades and violence, organizing Pennsylvanians for Choice, a coalition fighting for reproductive health care for all Pennsylvanians, advocating for contraceptive equity in health insurance coverage, and opposing “fetal abuse” prosecutions of pregnant women with untreated addictions in favor of providing women with substance abuse treatment.
Welfare: Because the welfare system primarily affects women and their children, WLP engages in advocacy opposing welfare restrictions that endanger and impoverish vulnerable families and supporting welfare policies and procedures that improve the lives of families. WLP participates on a PA Task Force to assist the Department of Public Welfare in implementing the Family Violence Option, a provision of federal welfare law providing flexibility to victims of domestic violence whose safety is compromised by welfare requirements. WLP is also working to restore welfare eligibility for women in recovery from addiction.

Family Law Issues: WLP recognizes that crucial decisions affecting the future of women and children are made in family court and that resources for representation of family law litigants are scarce. WLP strives to address the barriers to justice in custody, support, and protection from abuse proceedings by working with the Court and other stakeholders to achieve reform and by publishing consumer materials to assist pro se litigants in negotiating the complex family court system.

Violence Against Women: Ending violence against women is a common thread that runs through much of the WLP’s work. Major violence-related initiatives include leading advocacy efforts to improve and coordinate the response of Philadelphia government to domestic violence, leading a national effort to stop insurers from discriminating against victims of domestic violence, advocacy to improve the police response to sexual assault complaints, and litigation to improve the response of educational institutions to sexual assault in schools and on college campuses.

Sex Discrimination: WLP strives to eliminate practices and attitudes perpetuating unlawful discrimination against women. Relying on state and federal anti-discrimination laws, including the PA Equal Rights Amendment, we pursue the rights of women and girls to participate fully in employment, education, athletics, and public accommodations.

Lesbian and Gay Parenting: WLP strives to provide children of gay/lesbian parents with the same rights as children of heterosexual parents. Efforts include representing amicus curiae in support of adoption and custody rights of lesbian parents, and convening the Pennsylvania Council on Second-Parent Adoption, which monitors adoption procedures involving lesbian and gay families.
